Ref :- Memorandum dated 29.6.94 from Government of Maharashtra in Urban Development Deptt.

The Government of Maharashtra in Urban Development Deptt. by Memorandum dated 29.6.94 have issued directives under section 154 of M.R. & T.P. Act, 1966, clarifying some of the issues in implementing the levy, recovery and collection of development charges, levied as per the Notification No. TPS-1290/CR-104/90/UD-12 dated 5.8.1992. The Sr.No.2 of the said directives pertain to recovery of development charges for land development. As per the present practice, Building proposal Deptt. recovers development charges for land component of the new building even in the layout approved prior to 10.8.1992, considering it as exploitation of excess FSI, as stated in the Govt. Clarification under sr.no.2. Various representations have <sup>been</sup> received from the Architects and the developers objecting to the interpretation by the Corporation of the Government clarification and an effecting recovery of development charges of the land component, in the approved layout.

After careful consideration of the provisions of Sub-Clause 10 of amended Section 124 (A) of M.R. & T.P. Act, 1966 and further clarification from the State Government in Urban Development Deptt. by their Memorandum dated 29.6.94, it is decided to implement the directives as under <sup>as per para 1 of</sup> <sub>layover/s.m.c</sub> <sup>prior to 10.8.92</sup>

i) In cases where layout has been approved, development charges ~~prior to~~ 10.8.92 shall be recovered only for building construction and not for land development.

ii) In case where the original layout approved <sup>12.8.90</sup> prior to 10.8.92 is proposed to be amended, where additional FSI potential is not generated due to proposed amendment

In the layout, the development charges shall be recovered only for bldg. construction and not for land development.

iii) Where additional FSI potential is generated due to amendment to the layout approved prior to 10.8.92, the development charges for land component shall be levied to the extent of additional FSI generated/available in the amended layout.

iv) Change in the location of U.P. Reservations, change in location of layout R.G. or change in the alignment of internal access road within the layout will be considered as minor amendments to the layout, provided no additional FSI potential is generated due to these changes.

~~The development charges for the land component recovered earlier may be refunded to the concerned owner/developer, on receipt of specific application for the same, without any interest. Dy.Ch.E (U.P.) of the respective zones will be competent authority for sanctioning such & refund.~~

All the concerned staff working in Building Proposal Section are requested to take note of abovementioned guidelines which come in force with immediate effect.
